

ABSTRACT

A method for identifying advantageous and non-advantageous infusion regions in the tissue includes capturing at least one of (i) functional anatomical data and (ii) structural anatomical data. The captured anatomical data is 5 evaluated with computer assistance. Based on the evaluating step, the method includes determining infusion distribution information, such as directional and velocity information.

10 Z:\SEC152\152\DWB\SCHW\IP0177\IP0177USA.PAT.wpd